Feeding Guidelines

Whole-Grain

For over 30 years, we've taught pet parents the health benefits of feeding fresh. We only use the highest quality ingredients and real whole foods – with zero compromises and no artificial anything. We're family run and driven by one goal: to help the animals we love live longer, healthier lives.

Tailor the water to your dog's preference. If they like it a little thicker, add less water.

Adult Dog Guidelines: Use a standard measuring cup to make your dog's meals. The serving amounts on the chart below are “per day” and may be divided into two or more meals.

Dog's Weight in Pounds	Dry Cups Per Day	Cups of Hot Water

Transitioning Your Dog

When moving to a new food, it's always smart to slowly transition your dog. When you transition your dog over several days it allows their digestive system to acclimate to their new food.

Frequently Asked Questions

+ Can I make Every Dog Health ahead of time and store it in the refrigerator?

For best results, make fresh daily. Rehydrated food can be stored in the refrigerator in a sealed container for up to 3 days. Add hot water and stir after refrigeration to bring to desired consistency and temperature.

+ My dog is a picky eater. How can I make this more palatable?

Most dogs love the taste of real food. However, if your dog doesn't take to Every Dog Health right away, try rehydrating the mixture with bone broth or low sodium chicken or beef stock instead of water to entice him or her.
